All The Tricks

Is there a hot new hue in your future? Edmondo Blando of Salon Vanity in Philadelphia gives us the scoop on which colors will be turning heads this summer.

BLONDES: Look for strawberry to ginger shades. Blando advises picking a look based on your personality—try rich gold if you're an uptown kind of girl; smoky, silvery platinum if you have an edgier sense of style. "Pastels will also be popular, with a pop of pink or violet as an accent."

BRUNETTES: "Browns have never been as bold and beautiful," with chestnuts, sorrels and terracottas leading the pack. Consider highlights for added depth. "Whether you have soft highlights or edgy color blocks, contrasting colors make the lights brighter and the darks deeper."

REDHEADS: The richer and more vibrant, the better! "Contrasting red shades, like red/violet and red/copper, combine and complement each other beautifully this season," says the stylist.

HIGHLIGHTS: Find a stylist familiar with the balayage technique, which can make highlights softer and more natural looking. "The color is applied thinly at the root, thickening at the mid-shaft and the ends for a natural re-growth line." Lighter colors frame and brighten the face.
